Interim City Manager Schooley informed the Commissioners of the following items:

VIDEOTAPING OF COMMISSION MEETINGS
The City has made the decision to no longer participate as a member of the Cable Consortium at the start of the new year. This means that we will no longer be able to use MAC TV’s equipment to record our commission meetings. It is important that the public still has access to these meetings and there have been questions as to their availability. We have started the process of replacing the MAC TV equipment with our own. We also have started communications with our website host AccuNet to ensure the meetings can be uploaded to our site. A YouTube Channel for the City also is a possibility with linked access on our web site. This process will be finalized prior to the first meeting of 2018.

TECHNOLOGY
Keeping up with changes in technology and technology security is a constant issue for most government agencies of our size. With some of the recent changes in our personnel structure we have decided it is time to look at what IT solutions are available to us. We have a working relationship with IT Right, an IT consultant out of Bath, as they have assisted the police department for many years. We have met with IT Right representatives to get an idea of what type of services are available and to get an estimate on the cost of contracts. This is a key issue for the city to explore. The importance of a proven IT Solutions provider cannot be understated. The technology management and security options for governments today are impossible for someone to manage on a part time basis. It is time to fully explore this option, in some form, for the city.

Currently the city has numerous software systems responsible for various functions such as accounts payable, municipal billing, assessing, budgeting, etc.. These systems are not integrated. It appears that it may be beneficial to explore the possibility of consolidating the systems. We have contacted BS&A Software to come and assess our current designs to give us an idea of what may be available for consolidation. Efficiency and cost need to be explored to make some informed decisions.

We are in the process of creating a policy for our document records and storage management. We have been working with DocuWare for a couple years now. In looking at our processes for storage it is apparent that we need to solidify some policies and procedures so that the entire organization understands what needs to be scanned, where it needs to be stored, and how it can be accessed.

EMPLOYEE DEVELOPMENT TEAM
On November 20th, the initial meeting of the Employee Development Team took place here at City Hall. The team consists of 13 employees representing most of the departments in the organization. We laid some groundwork for the future by expanding on the idea of cultural change that was presented in the employee meeting in October. He was very encouraged after the meeting– He had to remind everyone that we’re not running a sprint, change takes time. Hopefully this won’t be a marathon, maybe a half marathon. It was encouraging to see that the members believe they can make a difference in where this organization is heading in the future.

A few items that stood out to him after the initial meeting:
Cultural change is a difficult process. The first stage of this process is to understand what the culture is today. We had quite a bit of discussion about this. It appears to me that as an organization we are kind of all over the place. Some departments have expectations and communicate well. Others do not have any idea of expectations or communicate at all - let alone with each other.

Accepting that all departments have specific tasks they need to accomplish, our expectations and standards need to be established for the entire organization. We ALL need to work towards some common goals. This will be an area of focus for the team. We will work to establish an employee assessment tool that each department can use that will eventually match our organizational goals. Working to eliminate negativity was also a major goal.

These are the 3 Steps to Organizational Change We Identified:

1. Before an organization can change its culture, it must first understand the current culture or the way things in the organization are now. We will not just skim over this part of the process. The Employee Survey, interviews and assessments have mostly been completed. Discussion from the team for clarification is an early goal. Remember - Those who do not know their past are doomed to repeat it.
2. Once we better understand the current culture (what is bad and good), we will make decisions about where we want the organization to go. We will then start to define our strategies and direction. What SHOULD the organization look like when successful. What is our vision, mission, and goals? How do we accomplish this change?
3. Finally, and this may be the most difficult stage – The Team will work to model and encourage individuals in the organization to buy into the proposed changes. The Team will create the expectations of the desired culture for the City of Alma, and then

At our next meeting on December 4th – we are going to start to define the most important values for the organization. This will begin to generate some of the discussion we need to have going forward.

"Maybe you can't change people. But if you can change the environment people are in, they are more likely to change"
